DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1,2,4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shultz (DE 19912149) taken in view of Counter (Pulp and Paper Canada article).

Shultz discloses a decorative base paper containing filler and mixtures of filler. Titanium dioxide and talc are disclosed, page 5 of the translation. Counter teaches that it is advantageous to extend titanium dioxide containing filler with talc having a mean particle size of 0.53 micron in amount up to 20%. The talc used as extender improves printing properties as K & N values and gloss. Thus, It would have been obvious to employ the claimed amount of talc as an extender in the titanium dioxide containing filler in Shultz.
